CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

The UBC Law Review invites you to submit articles, case comments, and legislation comments for publication in our journal. We are currently accepting submissions for Volume 53 Issue 1, which is slated for publication in January 2020. The deadline is 15 July 2019, but submissions received after this date may be considered for future issues.

Submission Guidelines

Preference will be given to submissions relevant to the law in Canada. Please note that the UBC Law Review does not accept unsolicited book reviews or manuscripts that are simultaneously under consideration for publication elsewhere.

All submissions must conform to the Canadian Guide to Uniform Legal Citation (9th Edition) and must include an abstract of not more than 250 words. Most submissions accepted for publication in recent years have not exceeded the following word counts, inclusive of footnotes:

- Articles: 20,000 words
- Recent Case or Legislation Comments: 10,000 words

As a refereed journal, all submissions are subject to review and no submission is guaranteed publication, including those that have been revised and resubmitted. Manuscripts will not be returned. Final publication decisions will be made by the journal's Board of Directors following full academic peer review. The Editors reserve the right to make such editorial changes in manuscripts as are necessary to ensure correctness of grammar and spelling, clarification of obscurities, and conformity to style.

Please e-mail an electronic copy (in Microsoft Word format) of your manuscript to the following address: lawrevubc@gmail.com

Best regards,

Chelsea Gardner
Editor-in-Chief (Editorial)

Patricia Neijens
Editor-in-Chief (Administrative)

About the UBC Law Review

First published in 1949, the UBC Law Review is one of Canada's leading peer-reviewed law journals. The journal is published by the UBC Law Review Society, a student-run non-profit organization. The Society's mandate is to stimulate debate and encourage discussion of the current state of the law in Canada. To accomplish this, the Society publishes independent articles, case comments, and legislative comments four times a year. Contributors to the UBC Law Review include academics, judges, lawyers, and students, and our subscription base is worldwide. For more information, please visit our website at www.ubclawreview.ca.
